

Rupert Wakley, Victoria Winter, Elaine Williams, Leigh Glazebrook and Rupert Sweeting, from Knight Frank's Stow and London offices

Molly Benson, Jason Addison, Katherine Blacker and Leslie Astor, from Pookey & Pals lifestyle gallery

Laura Grive, Christina Stapleton, Lucy Greaves, and Heather Rutherford, running the silent auction stand

The Christmas Fair in The Cotswolds in support of Wellchild

The ever popular Christmas Fair In The Cotswolds returned to Daylesford Organic Farm near Stow-on-the-Wold, even bigger than before, and was an instant sell-out for the three days of the event.

Specialising in quality designed pieces from the UK's leading designers, and with a range of free workshops from cookery to wreathmaking too, the Christmas Fair is in support of WellChild, the Cheltenham-based national charity for sick children.

The Christmas Fair is a rare opportunity to meet designers and purchase products direct from the creative source. Selected for quality and variety, the fair featured more than 200 stalls (over 40% new this year), in three huge marquees, with of some of the best of British design on show to buy.

Gillian and Gemma Hughes

Jane Cameron, Sue Maaz, and Sally Clubley

Tina Cassidy and Catherine Holman

Lauren and Sam Greaves

Charlotte Strange and Olivia Watts

Excited shoppers exploring the Fair

Jackie Sadler, Josephine Lincoln and Anna Pelly-Fry