The Christmas Cotswold Fair has unique gifts for all your loved ones

THE COUNTDOWN IS ON...

The Christmas Cotswold Fair is the perfect way to kick off the festive season

Though summer feels like it was only yesterday, our favourite time of the year is just around the corner – Christmas, the ultimate time for gathering with friends, sharing gifts and enjoying delicious food. And where better to start getting into the Christmas spirit than the stalwart of festivities at the Christmas Cotswold Fair (11-14 November).

Held in support of national children's charity WellChild, known for its incredible work giving seriously ill children, young people and their families across the UK the best chance to thrive, the Fair welcomes over 220 stalls from across the UK and beyond, selling everything you and your loved ones could ever want this Christmas.

What's more, the 2024 Christmas Cotswold Fair will be taking place in its new home within the estate of Todenham Manor Farm. Nestled between the well-known market town Moreton-in-Marsh and quaint Todenham village, Todenham Manor Farm estate is set amidst the beautiful rolling Cotswold hills with views for miles.

In addition to the myriad of incredible stalls, there's an unmatched selection of demonstrations, exclusive workshops, celebrity author book signings (including the Cotswolds' own Kaleb Cooper), author 'meet and greets', the Festive Feasting area, hard standing parking* and of course, the ultra-luxurious Cotswold Grey VIP Lounge, with handmade canapés and delicious dishes from the esteemed Potted Goose Pub Co.

'What a Fair it is set to be,' says its organiser Lucy Greaves. 'The Christmas Cotswold Fair truly marks the beginning of Christmas, and we are so excited to showcase our incredible offering at Todenham Manor Farm this year. With over 220 stalls, 40 percent of which are brand new, there really is something for everyone. Now in our 39th year, we continue to be so proud to support WellChild, and help to make a difference to children and families around the country. We can't wait to welcome stallholders and visitors in November for the ultimate festive shopping experience all in aid of the worthiest of causes.'

WellChild is also excited to be working with the Christmas Cotswold Fair again. 'With the number of children and young people living with complex medical needs growing year-on-year, the Fair has become critical in raising the funds needed for WellChild to give these children and families the best chance to thrive at home instead of hospital,' said Matt James, Chief Executive of the charity. 'We look forward to an even brighter and even more festive Christmas Cotswold Fair within the estate of Todenham Manor Farm this year.'
